

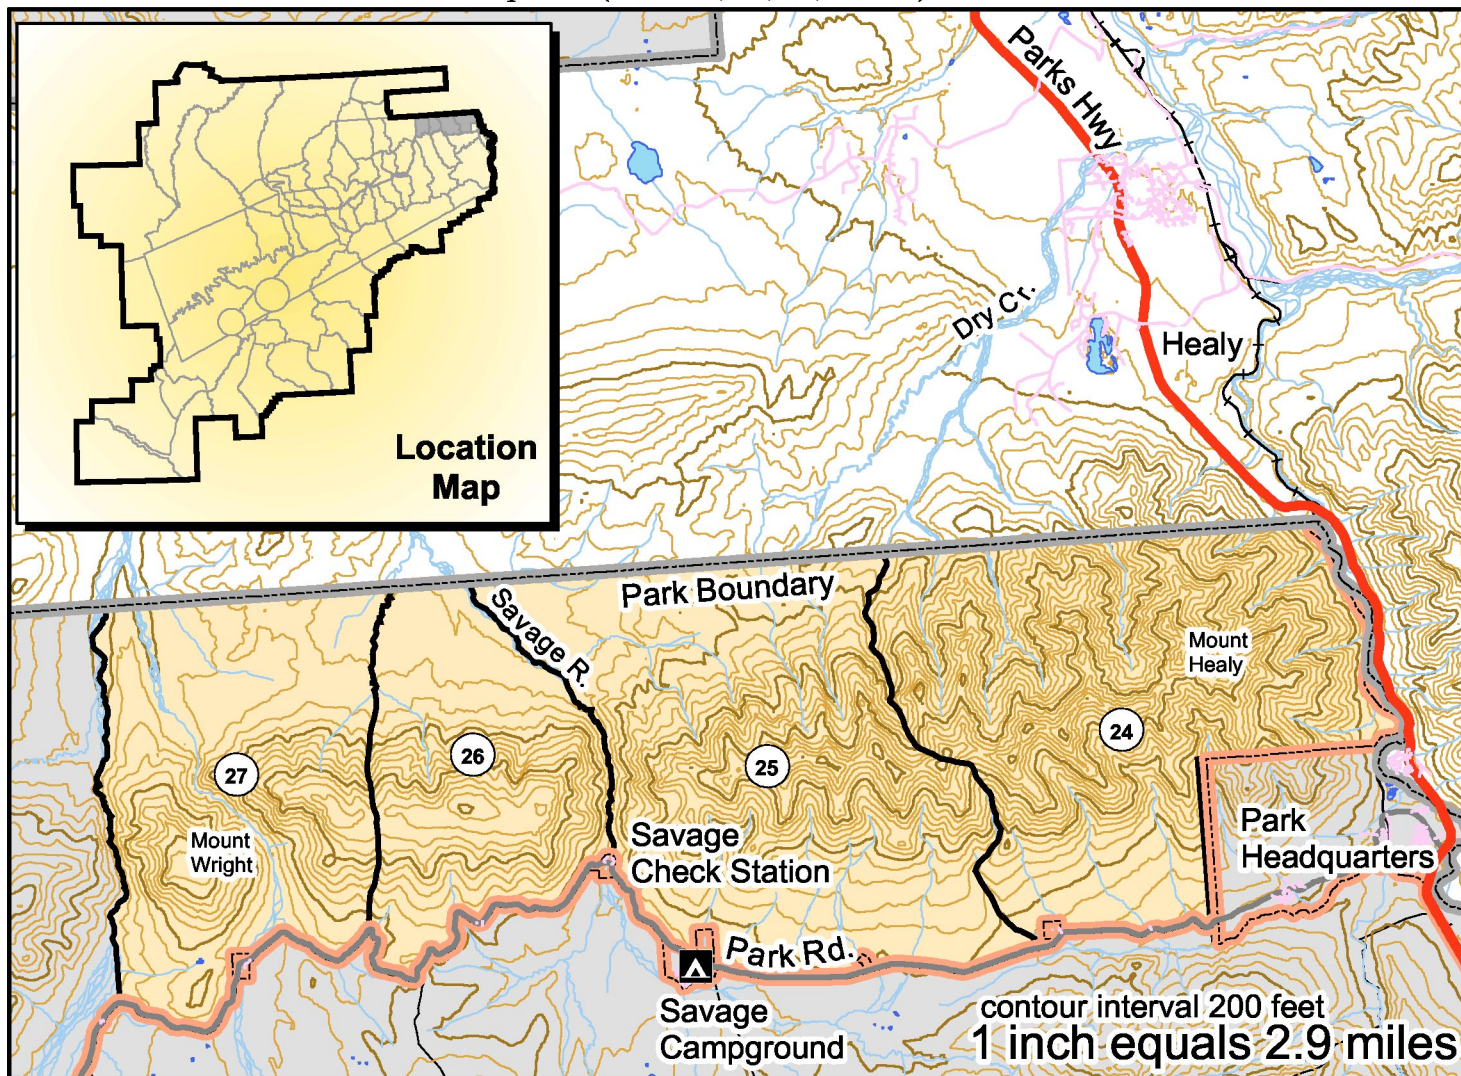

Map 2-28 (Units 24, 25, 26, and 27)

Mount Healy, Healy Ridge, Primrose Ridge, Mount Wright (Unit 24,25,26,27)

Dry tundra covers some slopes and saddles, and summits are exposed rock. Dwarf birch and willow are often dense at lower elevations. Mount Wright is an important foraging area for sheep and a launching area for sheep migration. Salt licks at Ewe Creek. Moose rutting area. Caribou activity year-round and calving grounds in spring. Raptor sites, wolf dens, scattered archeological sites.

Access from Mount Healy Trail and Lower Savage Trail allow visitors easy access. Most use is from day hikers. Encounter rates near these access points are very high. Air traffic may be frequent and development outside the park can be seen from the Healy Ridge. There are 9 cabins. Wilderness experience improves farther away from the park road. Closer to park road, air traffic and auto traffic degrade wilderness character.
